

The Godslayer's Oath (Lyrics by Dom Brilliant and Marc Verreault)

From ashes of the void, he rose without a name
A heart of iron forged in endless flames
The throne of Heaven quakes beneath his hand
The blood of stars now stains the land

I am the fire that burns the sky
The bane of the Gods, where Heavens die
No realm shall survive my boundless wrath
For I am the one who walks death's path

Prayers fade to dust in temples drowned in gloom
He breaks the halos, defies their sacred tomb
His shadow swallows thunder, faith and light
No Gods dare challenge his endless night

The Godslayer's Oath is bound by dark
Massive destruction and blackened hearts
Destroys the realm of Gods who defy
This nameless being of eternal fire

The Gods now crawl, their voices choked by fear
Their hymns dissolve, no Heavens left to hear
Alone he stands, in silence cold and pure
The last divine erased, this is the end

I am the fire that burns the sky
The bane of the Gods, where Heavens die
No realm shall survive my boundless wrath
For I am the one who walks death's path

From ashes of the void, he rose without a name
A heart of iron forged in endless flames
The throne of Heaven quakes beneath his hand
Blood... Stains... the land